MANUFACTURES IN THE SOUTH.

In 1850 the United States were getting over the great panic of 1873. Specie payments had been resumed. Business was on a firm footing. The growing wealth of this country was noticed throughout the world. Our prosperous manufacturing industries already were thriving so plainly that there was talk of a reduction of tariff duties. At this period General Hancock made his historic utterance that the tariff is a local issue.

At that time, the South had scarcely a place in the statistics of American manufactures. The South was recovering from war and reconstruction.

At the present time, sixteen Southern States have a hundred millions more capital invested in manufactures than the whole United States had in 1850, just thirty years ago. In 1909 these States had $2,555,000,000, almost three billion dollars, of capital invested in manufacturing industries. In 1850 the manufacturing capital of the nation was $2,750,000,000.

In 1909 the South was getting along as a manufacturer. Its mineral products were worth $1,151,000,000. In 1909 they had jumped to a valuation of $2,742,000,000.

Southern manufactures now reach to $3,000,000,000, three billion dollars the year. In 1909 they were not more than half, and in 1850 not more than a third as much. Southern manufactures have grown 219 per cent. in two decades, and all American manufactures 135 per cent.

The South is still regarded as an agricultural region, but Southern manufactures exceeded Southern farm products by $400,000,000 in 1909.

Material prosperity once more dwells in the South. With this prosperity have come good roads, water power development and good schools. The South is leaping forward at a marvelous pace.

THE HOUSE OF GOVERNORS.

"The House of Governors" has been invited by Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, to meet at Spring Lake in that State on September 12. Thirty-five Governors have accepted that invitation. The New Jersey executive who will have charge of the meeting wishes it to be a "strictly business affair," insisting that the executives shall devote themselves to the measures before them, make speeches on them or prepare plans for bringing the States more closely together. Governor Wilson protests against the social features which were so marked at the conference of 1910. Last year the Governors met at Frankfort where they received many attentions, and they soon adjourned to Louisville, where they were overwhelmed with real Kentucky hospitality. They achieved nothing in a practical way, and the chief result of the Frankfort-Louisville session was to make the executives of the several States better acquainted with each other.

Even if the conference did no more than that, its continuance would be justified. An exchange of experiences would bring about good. Each Governor would learn something from his colleagues. It is hoped, however, to get more practical results from these conferences. Important questions could be taken up, discussed and acted upon with the purpose of effecting greater uniformity in our laws and official methods. There are in a majority of the States organizations which have for their aim securing greater uniformity in the matter of marriages, divorces, land titles, mortgages, notes, etc., and these bodies by their constant activity and agitation have been able to bring about good improvement.

If the Governors can be gotten together they might then manage and largely influence the legislation of the nation. If they could exchange views and experiences they would speed the time when all our States would have identical laws on many important subjects.

The Constitution, of course, makes no provision for any conference of the heads of the States. It provides for no negotiations between the States, therefore, a certain amount of interstate jealousy has prevented the Governors from getting together. They were brought together by accident at the Lake-to-the-Gulf Deep Waterway Convention at Memphis three years ago. President Roosevelt was at the convention. Nearly all of the Mississippi Valley Governors were there. In the voyage down the river the Governors were all on one of the steamers together, and they found it pleasant and worth while to talk together. President Roosevelt, inspired by this incident, later assembled them at Washington, where a long program was carried out. Two years following the Governors met at Frankfort and Louisville. Their meeting, however, was mainly social.

If the "House of Governors" will frankly get down to work, it can do great things. A few words from the Governors to their Legislatures will secure practically all the uniformity in legislation we really require. Governor Wilson is a forceful leader, and it is not improbable that he will insist that the "House of Governors" take the questions before them seriously, devote their time to work and see what they can do in the way of bringing about more uniform laws throughout the nation.

THE APPLE.

The American Apple Growers' Congress has lately been in session in St. Louis, a fact which has served to recall to many in that part of the country that the apple is "king of fruits" and that the United States produces four thousand varieties of this fine product.

The St. Louis Republic pays this glowing tribute to the famous fruit: "The apple is the most human and democratic of fruits. It was introduced to fit the interior of the pocket and fill up the chinks and interstices of the lunch basket. It does not require elaborate preparation like the pineapple or a special instrument of consumption like the grape fruit. While liberal of its juice, it is not prodigal of it, like the orange. It may be eaten in transit. It is easily divided according to simple mathematical principles, making for unselfishness and the brotherhood of man. The tree which bears it, with its low and spreading branches, is at once a challenge and an invitation to the climber. Because of its attraction for the small boy, all stages of its growth, beyond as well as within the parental domain, the apple has been a text for much teaching of morals and dietetics."

The apple is all that our Missouri contemporary says it is, but how much more enthusiastic and complimentary that tribute would have been if it had been written about the matchless apples that come to their glorious perfection under Virginia skies.

The Mayor of Seattle is not going to be forced out of his office just yet. A careful checking up of the names on the petition for his recall shows that 2,378 out of a total of 4,547 are illegal. Had all of them been legal, those less than 5,000 names would have been enough to oust him forthwith from his position, for a recall usually seems to mean that, and there certainly appears to be something essentially wrong with a system which gives that power to so small a number of voters.

In fact, the more the recall is investigated, the less value it seems to have. The Portland Oregonian, in the stronghold of the doctrine of the recall, has had a good opportunity to observe at close range, and it recently said that in practice it is found that rival ambitions and party politics have more to do with the recall than have the official acts of the victim.

The referendum, likewise, appears not to be working well in the land of its adoption. Portland, Oregon, for instance, is about to ask itself whether it shall settle the question of a crematory in accordance with a contract between the city and the builders or whether popular opinion, influenced by what may be unjust comments or attacks, shall decide. Another question which will soon arise is whether the Governor of the State shall carry out a convict parole system which he believes to be for the general moral welfare or whether he shall be guided by the fears and forebodings of a part of the populace.

These matters are a part of the continuing administration of public affairs in those communities which cherish the newfangled ideas. If we may take the best Oregon testimony, they do not provide a safe and reasonable check on the official acts of public officers. Rather they are dangerous weapons in the hands of prejudice, passion and political ambition.

COURSES IN RESTING.

Usually more progressive than her sister universities, the University of Wisconsin is now offering courses in resting.

These courses are open only to young women, for there never has been any reason for teaching young men how to rest.

For a whole year one hundred and seventy-five women students were given the rest courses successfully in connection with physical training work.

The students were taught to speak quietly to hold their faces and their hands in repose while talking; to keep all the muscles of their body under control at all times and thus conserve energy which is wasted by the nervous, restless women who make small tasks onerous through fretting and worry.

Many young women are said to have been saved from nervous breakdown through these courses in nerve steadiness and self-control.

The greatest conservation is in the manner prevented for the associates of these nervous young women of the type given to talking with their entire bodies and worrying every one to death who has to listen to their trials and tribulations.

WOMEN AND THE MAGAZINES.

Commenting upon the fact that most of the American magazine writers are women, and that perhaps the bulk of the stories are written for women readers, the Chicago Inter-Ocean explains this fact on the ground that commercialism has affected women less directly than men.

This is no doubt, part of the reason for the preponderance of women in the magazine fields. Another cause for their extraordinary productivity in writing is that the wonderful development of modern woman intellectually has given her a sort of new enthusiasm for work in original and creative channels. She has an enthusiasm so new that it has yet lost none of its edge. Moreover, there are so many other fields open to the man who would make a living with his brain that the competition coming from feminine magazine writers is greater than that found in work which is not so easily adapted to the physical limitations of the average woman.

The Des Moines Register is of opinion that in the newspaper and magazine world a woman's work is not discounted, as it is apt to be in many of the professions and in most business ventures. "A woman's name signed to a story is as good as a man's, from the editorial point of view. Indeed, it is sometimes better." The newness of the feminine advent in this great field is still somewhat of an advertising novelty.

The average woman, bent on money or a name, is more patient than the average man. Patience and perseverance are two qualities needed by the magazine writer, and these women have to a great degree.

BUDDHISM IN AMERICA.

In the Herald of Gospel Liberty Dr. J. Pressly Barrett utters a warning against the spread of Buddhism in the United States. He asserts that while we are sending missionaries to India, China and Japan, the Buddhists are sending missionaries to America and transplanting Buddhism in this country. Dr. Barrett says, in part: "We have several times directed attention to this matter, only to find that little alarm manifested on the part of the average Christian man and woman. Our first note of alarm was sounded when it was said that representatives of heathen religions were establishing places of worship on the Pacific coast. No one seemed at all alarmed, and we felt almost as if we had been frightened by a scarecrow. We were not, and we went along trying to feel comfortable and hoping that it would all die out. In a short while we were frightened again. It was when it was said that the women of San Francisco had built and dedicated a magnificent Hindu temple, that city at a cost of $100,000, and then we felt as if we must arouse the people to the danger confronting America from heathen religions, and we did try, but our efforts were not a success. We heard not a man or a woman, nor a child, express the slightest concern about the danger. And again we felt something like the watchdog had tried to awaken his master, but no one paid any attention to the danger signals, and we felt as if we must have been dreaming. Then we felt pretty small, and then we tried to be quiet, again hoping that heathenism in America would be absorbed and would accomplish but little, if any, thing, and in that conclusion we were resting as peacefully as possible, when lo, and behold, here comes another warning, telling us now that the work in establishing heathen temples on the Pacific coast has so far progressed that three native Americans have actually been set apart to the priesthood in Buddhism."

Buddhism is heathenism, and it may well be asked, what will this pagan invasion lead to? If it should get a firm footing it would make for the degradation and enslavement of woman, for the decadence of our great benevolent institutions. Darkness would fall over us. The danger, however, seems to be still remote, and the faith has little more strength in this nation than the many quills and isms that are springing up from time to time.

Secretary Wilson is to take a month's vacation. Some people think Mr. Taft ought to make it perpetual.

Every adult loses a quarter of a cent the day through short weights and measures. Maybe this is the cause of the high cost of living.

John White, one of the porters at the Mississippi State House, was overheard talking about the result of the recent senatorial election the other day. This was his comment: "Governor Vardaman is swine up dar to Washington 'n peel one or dem dar mendments and mortify I don't keef he does; I likes him jes de same."

That is just the attitude of most of the colored people who are intimately associated with white politicians who make the negro a burning issue. It is that way with Tillman, and that it is so with Vardaman indicates that while opposed to the negro as a class, he is friendly to him as an individual.

Millions of pounds of poultry and other meats and tons and tons of eggs have been found in cold storage in New York. The law says these edibles must be thrown away, but they will probably be shipped over into Jersey and sold.

Don't forget to help the tuberculosis sufferers at Catawba.

Both the candidates for the State senatorship from Newport News are "plain old agin" the fee system.

The Kaiser has given Munsterberg the Order of the Red Eagle, but the Order of the Peacock would have been more appropriate.

Chicago has "just the cutest hotel in all the world." It has not one big dining-room, like most hotels, where everybody eats and sits around in the midst of unbecoming furniture and decorations. This hotel has fifty little dining-rooms of all different color schemes and decorations. When a woman wishes a meal, the headwaiter notes her dress, her complexion, her jewelry, etc., and then directs her to the dining-room that matches her. In this way perfect harmony is secured. The headwaiter is an artist, he can match a woman's complexion to a dining-room immediately.

It is to be expected that applicants for life insurance will put as good a face as possible on the reports concerning relatives and the causes of their deaths, but often they make laughable statements. Some of these, originally appearing in the British Medical Journal, were: "Mother died in infancy." "Father went to bed feeling well, and the next morning woke up dead." "Grandfather died suddenly at the age of 108. Up to this time he had fair to reach a ripe old age." "Applicant does not know cause of mother's death, but states that she fully recovered from her last illness." "Applicant has never been fatally sick." "Applicant's brother, who was an infant, died when he was a mere child." "Grandfather died from gunshot wound caused by an arrow shot by an Indian." "Applicant's fraternal parents died when he was a child." "Mother's last illness was caused from chronic rheumatism, but she was cured before death." "Father died suddenly; nothing serious." So it goes.

We knew Atwood.

Public appreciation of the danger of wooden roofs is spreading throughout the South. Not long ago Jackson, Mississippi, decided to prohibit shingle and board roofs. Birmingham has just passed an anti-shingle ordinance, to take effect the first of next year.

Settlement in the Tidewater.

To the Editor of The Times-Dispatch: Sir—As a resident of the great State of Georgia, wish to state that it surprises me that the big State of Virginia, especially the Tidewater section, is so stuck in the matter of settling the vast vacant lands to be found in the Tidewater section. In the Tidewater section settlers are coming in by the thousands. Good settlers at that—sturdy Canadians, Germans, Swedes, Scandinavians and Scotch from the north and Western States. Even Virginia is furnishing its quota; no less than 10,000 Virginians have been sold to the Tidewater section of the Tidewater of Ware. And what is attracting them farther South?

It cannot be that superior crops are raised down there over those of the Tidewater, which are well known by all to be the garden spot of the middle South, and the feed-crop of the big markets of Washington, Baltimore and New York, and where from two to three crops a year are possible. No, it is not that, but the printer's ink that is attracting the settlers. The big land companies are spending money by the hundreds of thousands to get the Tidewater section of the Tidewater of Ware. And what is the result?

Simply nothing. Lying asleep at the switch while the big trains that run between the North and South are crowded with settlers for points farther South.

When one stops to think of the vast possibilities of the Tidewater section for agriculture, coupled with the shipping facilities for both rail and water, and the fertile soil which raises the finest crops, the best potato, be it Irish or American, the best corn, the best garden truck, such as cucumbers, berries, apples, peaches, plums, grapes, melons, and all kinds of live stock, it is no wonder that the writer is astonished to think that nothing is done to tell the outside world of the great possibilities and the great future of the Tidewater section. Not a single word is said, written, or printed in the big publications of the North and West inviting those who are tired of being burnt out by the drought, and whose crops are eaten up by grasshoppers and locusts, to come to the Tidewater section of the Tidewater of Ware. Right here in Tidewater that opportunity awaits them.

And protect their character from the wagging of slanderous tongues.

What a reason! I am a sound advocate of good clean baseball, the affords pleasure to players and attendant alike, helps us to pass our spare time pleasantly, gives us the opportunity to exercise our lungs, if not our limbs, trains our eye while watching the elusive curve, trains our sense of hearing while trying to catch the decisions of the umpire, enriches our vocabulary ever so much, gives us a chance to keep ridiculous and abusive remarks without making a mistake, in fact, enables us to use to the fullest extent every faculty of body and mind, comprising all the possibilities of a healthy and enjoyable life. It has been the most desirable thing with the ancient Romans. "Ut sit mens sana in corpore sano." That there is a sound mind in a sound body.
